Arc de Triomphe, France

The formal name of this structure, a symbol of Paris, is l'Arc de Triomphe de l'Etoile, based on the twelve avenues radiating from the center of the Arc de Triomphe, creating a star (etoile) pattern. The Arc de Triomphe was built in the 19th century by Napoleon Bonaparte to celebrate his military triumphs, following the custom of ancient Rome. Its sides are decorated with engravings and reliefs depicting scenes from Napoleon's battles.

*This model was designed for Papercraft and may differ from the original in some respects.
